JULY 7, 1886.

The circulation of a newspaper determines the value of its columns as an advertising medium. The NEWS-HERALD has by far the largest circulation of any paper in Hillsboro, Ohio, which fact advertisers would do well to bear in mind. Our lists are open to their inspection.

The Supreme Court has adjourned without deciding the Dow law cases, and the Democratic press seems to think it has gained a victory. The saloon-keepers do not look at the matter in the same light. If the liquor-dealers have to go on paying $200 tax, and the Court finally declares the law constitutional where is the triumph of the Democracy?

Had Messrs. Logan, Everts, and Teller known the power of the cyclones of indignation which Ohio is capable of generating they might have recognized a strong inducement to investigate Payne's election. No one is prepared to say that either of these gentlemen were bribed to vote as they did but the public impression is that "things do look suspicious."

From the enthusiastic way in which Democratic papers tell of Grover's diligence at labor the public has been led to suppose that he was a very industrious thick-skulled President. He has vetoed enough bills during the present session of Congress to blister his hands. If legislation to interrupt all beneficial legislation is a mark of goodness Cleveland is a perfect model.

The Gazette has contradicted itself in regard to Civil Service Reform and the hold it tries to crawl out at is small for crawling-out purposes. The catchism which it would use in examining candidates demonstrates very clearly that it doesn't know what Civil Service Reform is. The first question is, "Is he capable?" the second, "Is he honest?" and the third, "Is he a Democrat?" If the first two inquiries were answered in the negative, the last would have to be in the affirmative, and then the candidate would pass. That is the GENUINE REFORM over which the Democratic rooster flaps his wings and crows with extended neck! To a man up a tree in a good place to see, that does not look like any kind of reform, because it is the same state of affairs that existed before reform was talked of. The Democracy is very much in favor of having the Civil Service, but Reform is something it does not contemplate.

In our large cities people are holding meetings and taking steps to raise a fund for the purpose of electing Grover in Britain. The purpose is to aid in carrying the Home Rule bill through Parliament. It is but natural that Irishmen in America should feel a sympathy for their oppressed countrymen left behind, but as true Americans they have no business to meddle with politics across the water. Want and suffering in Ireland appeal to all countries for relief, and we may profitably study the problems which agitate other powers, but not one cent of money should be spent by citizens of the United States to further the interests of any European party. One would think our own people have been sufficiently disgusted with the use of boodle in elections to prevent them from aiding a British party in schemes of wire-pulling. Have Americans forgotten the trouble which England incurred by meddling with matters of ours during the rebellion? We have plenty to do at home and the American Eagle should never try to spread his pinions over the Emerald Isle.

If the editors of our contemporary can't read understandingly, they will do us a favor by quoting us verbatim, and give their readers a chance to understand us. Some of our statements were garbled so last week as to look like they had originated in the Gazette office. We said nothing about the principles of Thomas Jefferson being dead. We said Tom himself was dead, and if there is any doubt about that we are prepared to prove it. The fact that those principles form the foundation of a Republican Democracy makes them common property to Republicanism and Democracy. Neither can exist without them. In the sixteen paragraphs quoted neither party is eulogized or condemned. In the days of Thomas Jefferson there was no Republican party and, if there had been, he would not have been a Democrat. Since the days of Thomas Jefferson the Democratic party has been turned inside out, and upside down, and fore and behind, and hinds and before, and patched behind and darned before, till it is not a darned bit like it was before. For a Democrat to go round with a diamond edition of the life of Thomas Jefferson in his hip pocket, or next his heart inside of his shirt, does not make the Democratic party of the present day a better exponent of the principles of that noble man. A party that would keep abreast of the times and lead the country through the exigencies of the age, must not harp eternally on somebody's principles, aged one hundred and ten years and three days. The Democratic party does not to-day live up to a single principle of Thomas Jefferson and when we ridicule the Gazette for referring to him we ridicule, not his principles, but the inextinguishable silliness of the Democracy. Calling us liars and calumniators and snickers and so forth, and so on is a fit climax for the Gazette's logical article.

The Wilmington Journal's rule of analogy does not apply to us. In the first place there is a very perceptible difference between a convention and a candidate. We wanted the Congressional Convention, because looking over a congregation of stout-hearted Republicans makes a fellow overflow with patriotism. But we want the candidate because we have the best material from which to make candidates. You can hold the convention in the top of a Siamese mulberry tree if you nominate a Highland county man.

The people of Leesburg have always been red-hot on the subject of prohibition and will doubtless banish the traffic in the voting of this (Tuesday) evening. If the people of Hillsboro want to do something practical let them follow suit. Our council can hardly refuse to give the question a fair trial at the polls, and it can not harm the town to have it decided one way or the other. The subject has been discussed in all its phases and there is no need for a lecture here. We are unalterably opposed to the liquor traffic and will cast our bit of paper to banish it from the incorporated village of Hillsboro.

The Circus. Last Saturday was a gala day to the showing people of Van Wert county. About 9 o'clock the street parade was formed and marched through the principal streets, and presented as fine a display as was ever witnessed in the town. Every one pronounced the show excellent, and second to none. The proprietors and managers are perfect gentlemen in every respect.—Van Wert (O.) Republican.

Notice! The time is near at hand when the Great Gospel Campmeeting of the W. M. Church will commence on the beautiful Fair Grounds at Hillsboro—Saturday, July 10th, at 2 o'clock p. m. and continuing until July 19th, closing with a grand evening of song and march. The management of the grounds is in entirely new hands this season, and no pains will be spared to make this the grandest spiritual meeting ever held in the county. The committee are making every arrangement necessary to accommodate 2,500 people the first Sunday. The ablest and best ministers will be present and manage the meetings under union auspices, but on a strict temperate basis. Among the number of divines will be Elder T. H. Clinton, of Ripley, Elder S. M. Smothers, of Richmond, Ind., Elder H. C. Pierce, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and others. The singing will be one of the most attractive features of the meeting, and will be managed by Miss M. B. Buckner, of Dayton, a sweet and noted singer of Israel. The introduction sermon will be preached at 3 p. m. next Saturday by the manager of the meeting. Come one and all, let us worship the Lord.

FAIRFAX.

July 5th, 1886.

Our "Alabama Jim" left last Sunday through the rain on another inspecting tour.

Miss Emma J. Carlisle has gone to Greene county to spend the summer and fall.

The smiling face of Deputy Sheriff Frank Ayers was seen in our village last Tuesday.

Wm. Webster and wife, of Cincinnati, are visiting his father, L. F. Webster, this week.

Harvey Snider cut his foot with an ax last Monday, inflicting a painful but it is to be hoped not dangerous wound.

Our new hack made its first trip last Thursday, bringing us the News-Herald in the morning instead of evening.

The LaForge will case will take a number of our citizens to Hillsboro the 7th inst. Thirty-one subpoenas have been issued thus far.

Shannie Moore, our old mail carrier, who brought us our mail regularly through last winter's cold, bid us farewell on Thursday.

W. B. Corbin has sold his farm to Christina Snider and is to give possession the 15th of October. We hate to lose Wesley for he is a straight voter.

The horse of Miss Easter's mentioned in our last as being sick with lung fever died last Saturday night and was buried, but, unlike the one reported by our Rainboro correspondent, was not exhumed.

Mrs. John W. Davis was given quite a pleasant surprise by her friends and neighbors last Tuesday and presented with a handsome quilt. Her thanks are hereby extended to her friends for the kindness shown her.

The Sunday School celebration at Union Chapel will take place on the 8th day of July, in the grove adjoining the church. Ample preparations will be made for the accommodation of all. Every Sunday School reading this is cordially invited to attend. Good speakers will be present and music will be furnished by the May Hill band. Come one and all and let us make this day pleasant and profitable and one to which our minds may revert in years to come as one of the ones in life's dreary desert.

East Monroe.

July 5th, 1886.

A new boy at Chas. Johnson's.

C. C. Smith is very sick with typhoid fever. Webster Emma, of Washington, was on our streets last Sunday.

Miss Mary Pulse, of Fall Creek, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mr. Jacob Cooper, of Redkey, Indiana, is here again among his friends.

Mrs. Mason was called to her sister's bedside in Fayette county this past week.

Miss Jennie Baldwin, of Greenfield, is visiting her cousin, the Misses Pope.

Chas. Kneader, formerly of near here, has purchased a butcher shop in Greenfield.

The military encampment at Washington O. H. is drawing large crowds from this vicinity.

Miss Mattie Carey, of Samanthia, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Hill, for the past week or two, returned home Saturday.

One of our merchants put up a stand out near the picnic grounds Saturday, much against the wishes of the band boys, who had come to much trouble and expense, and had the right to have all of the refreshment stands.

The Sunday School picnic held here Saturday, under the direction of Supt. Starn, of the M. E. Sunday School, and Temperance Cornet Band, proved a success in every particular. The exercises were opened in the morning with music by the Bowersville band and singing by Rev. Kelly, of Greenfield, led in prayer, and then Rev. Daniel Hill, of New Vienna, addressed the children of the different schools. The exercises of the afternoon were opened by Rev. Wright, of the U. B. Church, followed by Rev. Alfred Brown, of Sabina, Kelly, of Greenfield, and Redkey, of Leesburg. The Greenfield Sunday School was present, and large reunions from Leesburg, Lexington, and many other schools. The Bowersville and Monroe bands were present. The Bowersville band played some very fine selections both forenoon and afternoon. The Monroe band did splendidly for the picnic they have had, and under the training of Prof. Sillou Dunsell, are becoming a band of which we may well feel proud.

well feel proud. Miss Story, of Greenfield, sang some splendid pieces of music, which were well received. Quite a crowd was present, it being estimated at from twelve to fifteen hundred. All passed off quietly, no drunkenness or quarreling being seen, as Monroe is enjoying prohibition as a result of the Dow law. The band boys received about $100 from their refreshment stands, with which to pay expenses. Many were disappointed at not hearing Hon. Mills Gardner, but a telegram was received from him, stating that he was detained at Columbus on business.

NEW LEXINGTON.

Tom Pittman says the first time he went courting, he felt as if a pink angel had hauled him down a rainbow with a piece of chain-lightning right smack in the middle of his forehead.

"Ah, John!" she said, just before marriage, "I fear I am not worthy of you. You are such a good man."

"Never mind, Martha; I'll change all that after the wedding."
